

MAKE A DATE FOR MEET THE MANUFACTURER 2017

24th and 25th May

The Old Truman Brewery, London E1

There is a growing appetite for British-made goods, which is reflected in this year's Meet the Manufacturer event, organised by Make it British, on 24th and 25th May at The Old Truman Brewery in East London.

Kate Hills, founder and CEO of Make it British, says: "We've been inundated with enquiries since our last event from people not only looking for manufacturers to help them make their product in the UK but also from people who would like to buy from brands that are made in Britain. That's why we're introducing a new 'brands hall' at our next event for these creative businesses to showcase their distinct and inspirational labels."

Meet the Manufacturer is the only sourcing event exclusively for British fashion, textiles and homeware. The two-day event includes a trade show, with over 100 exhibitors, and a series of workshops, connecting manufacturers of textiles, apparel and leather goods with buyers, designers and retailers looking to produce quality British-made products.

KUSAN AIMING TO RAISE £500 FOR WEAR A HAT DAY

Kurt and Sandra Fritsch wrote to us to say: "Our charity efforts have always been based in Nepal but this year we have decided to get involved closer to home. We will be supporting the work of Brain Tumour Research, focusing on their rather apt campaign 'Wear a Hat Day'. We'd love as many of our customers and followers as possible to get involved. All they need to do is post a photo on our Facebook page or tag us in Instagram wearing their favourite KuSan hat on Friday 31st March and we will make a contribution per unique photo."
